section. Her coming was unheralded, but Inspector Hollinberger and Detectives Heian and Boyd knew within an bour after her arrival that Nellie Hamburg, alias De Ford, alias Howe, one of the eleverest New York shoplifters and "stalls," was in town.

Ever since Saturday the woman has been under the strictest surveillance by the detectives. Her every movement was watch-ed and noted. The officers feared she might bry to "turn a trick" here and then disappear.

Last right Detectives Boyd and Helan arrested Nellie on suspicion and held her at the Twelfth street station in charge of the matron. They talked with her, and she acknowledged that she was the companion of Ralph Hamburg, alias De Ford, alias Howe, who is now doing a long term in the "pen" for shoplifting.

though she could have been held as a sus picious character, under the vagrancy act. The inspector told her that she had been arrested on her record, and as a precautionary measure to protect the Wash-ington business houses. He agreed to re-lease her if she would leave the city, and she agreed to go at once. She said the keeper of the resort with whom she had been stopping since last Saturday was an old friend of hers and she had come here to visit her.

Ralph Hamburger, her alleged husband, is said, by the police, to be an expert and nervy sneak thief and shoplifter. He hails from Baltimore, where his people are said to be well to do. He works with the woman arrested last night, who does the "stailing" for him. He was arrested in New York on July 17, 1891, charged with stealing from C. Werincke, an importer, antiques, rings, pass, brooches and other miscellancous pieces of diamond jewelry valued at $10,000 on February 3, 1891. Paris, and comes from the hands of an known, in order to better protect the se cret of manufacture. It is by the gramme that this product is sold at wholesale. In reducing its price to the basis of pounds it is easily found that the filaments for lamps of twenty candles are worth $8,000 per pound, and that for tamps of thirty candles they are worth $12,000 per pound

The former have a diameter of twenty thousandths of one millimeter and the latte four and one-half thousandths of a milli-meter. The filaments for lamps of three candles are so light that it would require nearly 1,500,000 of them to weigh a sound. ### PROTOCOL APPROVED.

Venezuelan Cabinet Has Agreed to All Its Terms.

New York, Dec. 19.-A special cable dis patch from Caracas, Venezuela, says: Min-ister Andrade and Mr. Storrow, Venezuelan counsel, will sail on the Caracas when the steamer leaves port. It is rumored that they have the approval of the cabinet of the terms of the protocol upon which the Angle-Venezuelan treaty is to be based. The protocol, however, must be sanctioned by Congress before becoming operative. Minister Andrade was the guest of honor at an official farewell banquet last night.

The press still continues to discuss the protocol. One article which has excited ome attention appeared in the Pregonero It was written by a former minister of foreign affairs, Dr. Pulido, who criticises the action of the United States with asperity. Dr. Pulido suggests that the American government has looked largely to its own interests in arranging terms with England for the settlement of the boundary dispute in the Yurnai and Delta territories. He adds that the United States has not fulfilled its promises in the matter. The article also says that it was hoped and be lieved in Venezuela that the administration at Washington would drive the British be yond the Essequibit.

El Timpo and the other papers comment upon the protocol. In general they express the opinion that the terms should be accepted, but with amendments. All without the proposed arbitration tribunal.
